

"This information may be interpreted as science fiction or however the viewer decides; it is shared for entertainment purposes, although we take it with utmost importance".

Gosia: Hi, welcome back! So good to be able to continue. So how have you been? How have you felt about not being alone in the universe, or at least about the possibility? I know it can bring all kinds of different reactions, it's natural. This subject is one of the most important ones to be aware of as it affects our reality on all levels, and we will discuss that too in the future. For now, let's continue where we left off and it was that the humanoid races are the norm in the universe and among most common ones, if not the most common ones. Space people, or stellar people. Biological, physical, as you and me.

There are countless of other species, obviously, that would look different than humans, with tiny to huge mental and physical differences, inside and outside, but most interstellar humanoid races, if dressed in a normal terrestrial way walking the streets of Kansas, would not be recognized as anything else than that, someone from Kansas or a tourist.

I cannot stress enough how important this is. Humanity is not indigenous to Earth and did not evolve on Earth, as Darwin claims, because they are simply everywhere, at least in this galactic quadrant. How did they get there? They didn't, they have always been there! Are they us from the future? Many of them individually are time travelers, as they do have that capacity and I will explain in detail how that works later on, but no, the ones I am referring to up there in space right now, no, they are not us from the future. Are they from another "dimension"? Hmm... not really and, in short, no, if we regard other dimensions as something less physical. Those less physical beings do exist but here I am talking about the flesh and bone physical people, born and living outside Earth. With all physical needs as you and me. People. They eat, sweat, go to the bathroom, sleep, get angry, sad, and everything else that characterizes you as well.

How can we call them and us in general? Us Earth humans and them space humans? Pleiadian humans? Centauri humans? Well, obviously they can all be called after their place of origin, but the most general denomination for all of us together would be Lyrians, Lyrian humans. Why Lyrians? How the non-terrestrial races themselves understand it is that the human beings, in general, have originated from the planets orbiting the star Vega which is found in Lyra constellation, and therefore the human looking people everywhere are called Lyrian humans. We are all Lyrians, whether on Earth or outside, from the same Lyrian branch, the oldest known human looking root race as of what is known now. We all look alike and we didn't evolve on only one planet, as they make us believe on Earth.

"From the point of view of a non-terrestrial interstellar human, the existence of a greater humankind which exists and lives among countless stars in this galaxy alone is completely natural and obvious. So natural it is impossible to conceive the idea that humans could evolve and exist only on one single planet". (Mari Swa)

In fact, let's look into this more as it's important. For the non-terrestrial humans out there, it's inconceivable to imagine they would only exist on one planet. They understand humankind to be everywhere! But what about us? How have we been programmed to perceive extraterrestrials? As humans too? And also, how do I know all this really?

If we have been conditioned to believe that human beings evolved and exist only on Earth, then, as a logical consequence, all non-Earth beings, even if they exist, must look totally different than us, right? That's why we are usually bombarded with all kinds images of extraterrestrials, looking all but human. Green aliens with antennas, scary looking ones, etc. This is yet another consequence of making people believe they evolved on Earth - it negates the possibility of any other human looking person being extraterrestrial. Even if seen and interacted with, and even if they told you who they were, they would automatically be taken for lying humans. If someone looks human, then it must be human. I believe that the program of brainwashing people into the Matrix perception agreement that all ET must be "weird looking and sounding" is the attack on all Lyrian extraterrestrials wanting to interact openly with the terrestrial race, even if that was possible or allowed. This must change!

This tendency to assume that anything extraterrestrial cannot look familiar also applies to how we expect their crafts and objects to be. If it's relatable, it must be human. If it's super weird, then it's ET. The reality is different. Many ET crafts are very advanced but still recognizable as technology made by the human mind, with similar components and elements throughout. I will explain why in a bit.

Oh, look at that! Just as I am talking about the crafts, we have one passing by real close. Well, in reality they wouldn't be passing so close, it's made this way for the video sake, but I am showing it to you so you can see many elements here that are recognizable, made by the Lyrian mind. This is a rendition of a real spacecraft, by the way. You can see very long antennas at the front, full of cameras and sensors, some with lenses over two meters in diameter, looking down. Windows, as all Lyrian humans need those. Nothing would happen, by the way, if they opened them because what keeps the ship pressurized is not the window or the hull, that's only secondary. The primary pressurization comes from the shields that each ship has. Also navigation lights. Green on the right, red on the left. That's used in space too, not just on Earth, by the way! Engines at the back, some at the front, and many other familiar components. As you see, it's not some strange looking ship (although those exist too), but practically made by the human Lyrians. And it doesn't mean it's any less extraterrestrial!

This programming also extends to how we expect the ET people to talk and behave. If it's "cryptic" and "strange sounding", it would be ET. If the person sounds just like us, perhaps with slight accent, if any, it cannot be anyone from outside. Another damaging misconception! Add to the mix all the New Age misconceptions about the extraterrestrials as beings of light, orbs, or angels, unreachable and enigmatic, and what we end up with is a total mess. All the above do exist by the way but, again, it's not who the physical ET people I am talking about are.

The facts are different. The barrier between the terrestrial and stellar humans are very often blurry and undefined, with the biggest most obvious one being that the first one is born and developed on Earth, and the latter is not. But, apart from this and many other differences, there are also many similarities between us, something that not many people on Earth can grasp yet, and we must start to understand this and not be surprised.

"That is something very hard for humans to understand or accept. They imagine that if something or someone is from another planet, star system even more, then whatever they have must be terribly exotic and different from "here". And that IS correct, that IS so. But not only. We, for example, have many musical instruments that are virtually identical to the ones on Earth. Piano and violin, as some examples". (Aneeka of Temmer)

Are you surprised with what you just heard? A little cognitive dissonance sneaking in? Pianos outside Earth? Let me then give you a little bit of a context to understand this. Stellar cultures, unlike the one on Earth, are not isolated from one another, they are interstellar, and they constantly share, cooperate, and import ideas and customs among themselves. This includes importing and exporting inspirations into and from Earth. It has been always happening, it's simply something that Earth people are not aware of.

"Everything everywhere in the universe is shared ideas, so culture is much more extensive than people on Earth think. Meaning that you find the same over and over in many places, but depending on the race, its influence, its morphology" (Aneeka of Temmer).

This occurs not only because of the interstellar travel capacity among races but also because each soul, when passing on and being born again, may choose a different place for its next incarnation, and he or she will be taking with them the ideas absorbed in the previous one (reincarnation subject yes, I know, we will get to that). Remember the previous video, "Body and Soul", where we talked about taking the ideas and beliefs learnt in our life into the future one? Like in the case of children who display specific talents or preferences from the very young age? This is one of the mechanisms of implanting the ideas into other cultures.

There is yet another reason for why that happens, sharing of ideas. Among all members of the same species, human or not, independently of its location, there is something called collective unconscious uniting us all. For example, a horse in Senegal will act the same, or similar, as a horse in Pakistan, right? I have a dog, and even though she has her own unique traits, there are others she shares with other dogs around the world. Why is that? They haven't been together to learn their dog ways, no? They don't have to. A dog will be a dog, a cat will be a cat, regardless of distances between them.

The same applies to humans on Earth and all over the universe. We are all from the same Lyrian branch, the same root, in that sense we are family, and, despite different personalities and preferences, we will share characteristics common to all Lyrians, no matter how far we might be from each other. Besides, having same morphology, there is only so much we can design for our bodily template. That's why many of their crafts, even though very advanced, will have many elements that are known to us and it won't mean they are terrestrial.

"Holding the same morphology, the species adapted the world around them to the common and specific needs of all human bodies, which also brings a way of thinking and reasoning very similar to that of terrestrial human beings. So, many things in all these civilizations are common to what human beings have on Earth". (Mari Swa)

"Toothbrush is a toothbrush and chair is a chair, with the twist depending on the culture. There is only a limited amount of things you can do for a human shape. So a table is still a table, you have toothbrushes and toilets. Door knobs and stair cases". (Aneeka of Temmer)

And let me throw in another interesting quote in here, explaining how different concepts travel from one culture to the next, including Earth:

"Many think some concepts originate on Earth, and no, many are imported. This has been going on since the beginning of time, and something important to note here is that the customs, fashions, concepts, art, and everything else that defines a civilization on Earth will be directly influenced depending on the type of non-terrestrial races being there at one point or another in Earth history. From the point of view of those races, it is all just a soup of ideas, concepts, technology, art and everything else that is shared between various cultures in space". (Aneeka of Temmer)

Why is it important I say all this? Obviously, to make you understand that you are not alone in the universe and never have been, but especially so that you know you are accompanied by many more like you, people, stellar people, your Lyrian family, who look, talk, and behave a lot like you, for the reasons explained above. And, because you are wondering for sure, most of them very friendly.

I can't go into much more in this video as time is running out but let me just say this, because for sure you are asking yourself this as well. Where are they and why don't they show themselves? Why they don't show openly, that's something too complex to explain in this video, we will get to it, but I can briefly answer where they are.

Most of the civilizations out there are living peacefully in their planets and do not come here, others have been watching and directly or indirectly involved for thousands of years, others only sporadically. Many, you will be surprised, are closer than you think and mingling with humans on Earth, unrecognized.

But, in general, and just referring to the ones in the ships above Earth at this specific moment in time, we have a huge traffic of non-terrestrial origin in the orbit of our planet, with ships placed on several orbit heights at all times, depending on the individual role and task of each one of them. The big ones are mostly stationary if in higher orbit. The smaller ones are moving all over the place and can be seen many times as what humans call UFOs. If the big one is in the low orbit, it must move because it needs a force to counteract the Earth's gravity. "The speed pulls the ship away from Earth to the equivalent to the Earth's gravitational pull on the hull, making an equilibrium. Speed keeps them suspended. Countering and neutralizing it" (Aneeka of Temmer). That's a little technical fun fact on the side (plenty of those in the future, by the way).

And, important, let's not call them aliens as that is a negative association. Those would be the species dangerous to Lyrians. The ones I am talking about are simply extraterrestrial people.

And, lastly, none of this I share is new, it's how it's always been so there is nothing to be anxious about, if that's what you might be feeling. I know it can be much to accept, but isn't it thrilling to know there is so much more out there? And this is a good moment to pause and continue with our community friends to see what they first felt when they discovered we were not alone. Stay tuned because, yes yes, I didn't forget, I will tell you how I actually know all this and everything else that will come in future videos. Don't go anywhere, you don't want to miss it.

COMMUNITY WORKSHOP

Wow, another big class. I always feel they will be short and then I can't stop sharing. I can only hope you are enjoying it!

And no, I didn't forget, I did mention I will say how I know all this, didn't I? Well, what do YOU think? Do you think I just know all this because of the research I have done? Are these just my personal thoughts? Everything presented in my videos is written by me, except for what is in the quotes, but it is all based on what I have been learning through the direct contact with some of the people I am referring to here as "stellar". Remember when I said they are closer than we think, most of them directly in our orbit? Well, that's who all this information is from I am going to leave it there for now.

Do I have a proof of it? Not a direct one, but remember that the whole system on Earth is maintained this way on purpose. I and we are just trying to bend it a little, because we believe humans deserve to know more. The isolation has been hurting them for too long, or at least that's what I think. And no, I am not of them, if you were wondering, haha! If you are patient and stick around, more and more will be revealed as we go. Let's finish here for now.

Oh, and what's the subject for the future video? A surprise one, more personal one, a beginning of a new section within our program, and that is "Gosia Unscripted"! All my video-classes, if you haven't noticed, are always pre-written by me and scripted, but this one will be totally spontaneous where I will sometimes share with you my own personal thoughts, revelations, analysis of the topics we are discussing in the main classes. In the first "Gosia Unscripted", I will share what I myself felt when I discovered we were not alone and how I feel about it now. So, until then! Thank you for being here until now, and bye!